Mr. Morley Puts
It on the Line
du Pont 'Crack'

"If," Revenue Commissioner Dean Morley told a dinner meeting of the Arkansas Retail Liquor Dealers association in Little Rock last night, "anyone accuses me of dishonesty — or of using the Revenue Department as a means of political influence — they are lying now, and will be lying 10 years from now."

Continued the former FBI man: "You can bring a sackful of money (to get a liquor dealer's license), and it won't do you any good. If you don't believe it, try it."

And — speaking bluntly, if there were no business in liquor licensing, a lot of you wouldn't be here tonight. Seventy-five to 80 per cent of you voted for the unsuccessful candidate for governor last year."

"That's laying it on the line — and Commissioner Morley has no qualms to meet his challenge."

The revenue commissioner's appointment was one of the best of all Governor McMath's selections, for Arkansas does admit and trust ex-FBIer Morley. I am wondering, however, why it is that the state can get an honest and able man to administer package-store liquor licensing yet the professional prohibitionists say you can't set up a state liquor dispensary system because it would be crooked and full of politics.

The answer, of course, is, that any system will work under a competent man.

Best "crack" of the year was the comment the president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. made on the Department of Justice's suit to compel it to sell some of its other industrial holdings. Said he:

"The result would be to channel perhaps two-thirds of the sum realized away from du Pont stockholders and into the hands of government — about 350 million dollars for the government."

Business makes money the hard way — but all government has to do is, (1) enact an income tax, and (2) file an anti-trust suit. You first build a corral, and then run the herd in.

Bodies of 12
of Newsmen Identified

Bombay, India, July 13 (AP) — The rain-soaked underbrush on Chhatrapar hill today yielded the bodies of 40 of the 45 persons killed yesterday in the flaming crash of a Royal Dutch (KLM) airliner on Bombay Island.

Thirteen of the dead were American news correspondents. The bodies of all but one of the correspondents — Fred Colvig of The Denver Post — have been identified.

Hundreds of police slogging through monsoon rains continued the search for the five missing bodies. Luggage aboard the ill-fated plane has been recovered.

A coroner's inquest was delayed until evening at the request of J. A. Koks, commercial counselor of the Dutch embassy in New Delhi. He said the embassy was sending representatives to the crash scene, possibly to aid in the task of identifying the victims.

The plane, a Constellation, crashed on the 800-foot high hill while preparing to land at an airfield 15 miles north of Bombay. Controller of airdromes Shrinikshre Jung said the field was "perfectly okay" at the time of the crash and that other aircraft had made takeoffs a short time before.

Private funeral services for the Americans will be this evening in the coroner's court. American residents of Bombay and U. S. Ambassador Loy Henderson will attend. The main service for all 45 victims will be held tomorrow in Bombay's town hall.

The American consulate received instructions from the U. S. state department to have seven of the bodies of the correspondents cremated at the request of relatives who want the ashes sent to them.

The Netherlands consul said a KLM Constellation from Holland is expected to arrive here tomorrow with Dutch officials and detectives assigned to investigate the disaster.

Searchers said many of the bodies recovered had been mangled and charred almost beyond recognition. Some of the Americans were identified by papers found on the bodies. Henderson and American reporters here who were acquainted with the correspondents identified the others.

Here and There in Arkansas

Little Rock, July 13 (AP) — Arkansas looked at cloudy skies again today and more high temperatures was expected.

The forecast said there would not be much change in temperatures, which yesterday hit a high of 102 degrees at Camden. Fayetteville was the coolest spot with a low of 68.

Officials Differ on Cause of Airliner Crash

Los Angeles, July 13 (AP) — Official sources differed today whether a fight aboard an airliner caused it to crash and explode 30 miles north of here with a loss of 35 lives and injuries to 14.

A C-46 transport operated by Standard Airlines snagged a wingtip yesterday in the Santa Susana mountains in a fog and exploded on a steep canyonside in what civil aeronautics board inspectors said was the worst non-scheduled flight accident in the nation's history.

James N. Peyton, regional CAB chief, said that a brief fight between two men passengers apparently did not cause the crash. He made this statement after talking to survivors. Peyton said the crash occurred an hour and a half after the scrap.

However, Capt. L. R. Powell, chief pilot for Standard, said his investigation convinced him the battle caused the tragedy. He described the pilot of the twin-engine craft, Roy G. White, as highly skilled and careful. White was killed.

Stanley Weiss, airline president, expressed belief that the fight "may have contributed to the crash."

Standard airlines previously had been ordered by the DAB to discontinue flight operations next week for violating regulations.

A half hour before the crash, Pilot White had radioed Lockheed airport at Burbank that he wanted police to stand by to arrest one of two men passengers who had been fighting aboard. He said one man was badly beaten. The plane was inbound from New York.

A passenger, Mrs. Mary Bettis of Long Beach, Calif., said she saw the fight. She said she saw a man hit the man next to him just once.

Stewardess Vicki Zelsdorf said in a Long Beach hospital that she owed her life to the tussle. She said she gave up her seat to the man who was struck. The man in that seat was killed. She said the two men had been fighting the day before also.

When Mrs. Zelsdorf saw they were going to crash she threw a blanket across her knees and abdomen. Doctors said this was maternal instinct to save her unborn child, which they hoped to save. The stewardess was seriously injured.

Hope Man Is Charged With Theft

Texarkana — Fred Tullis, 27-year-old Hope man, admitted to broke into the home of a former Texarkana police Tuesday that he neighbor and took a table model radio which he later sold in Hope for $4.50. The neighbor was William Underwood of Fishersville community near Texarkana.

Tullis was ordered held for Miller County circuit court following a hearing on charges of burglary and grand larceny. He blamed his misdeeds for missing him commit the burglary, but Judge J. D. Cook brushed aside the implication after it was revealed that the radio first was pawned and later sold.

He denied taking $23 which was under the radio. He is being held under $1000 bond.

Psychiatrist Hubby Trying to Drive Me Crazy Says Actress

Detroit, Mich., July 13 (UP)—Seven Actress "Paula" Drew, 23, today accused her internationally known psychiatrist husband, Dr. Ira Altshuler, who is more than twice her age, of trying to drive her crazy.

In a cross suit for separate maintenance, answering a divorce action he filed two weeks ago, the long-legged starlet charged Altshuler with:

1. Trying to hypnotize her.

2. Attempting to "shoot" her with a hypodermic needle for experimental purposes.

3. Threatening to throw acid at her.

4. Knocking her down and kicking her.

5. Failing to give her an automobile.

The 58-year-old psychiatrist, who is widely known for the successful treatment of mental patients with music, characterized his wife's charges as "ridiculous" and a "publicity stunt."

The couple married two months ago, the day after Altshuler obtained a divorce from his first wife.

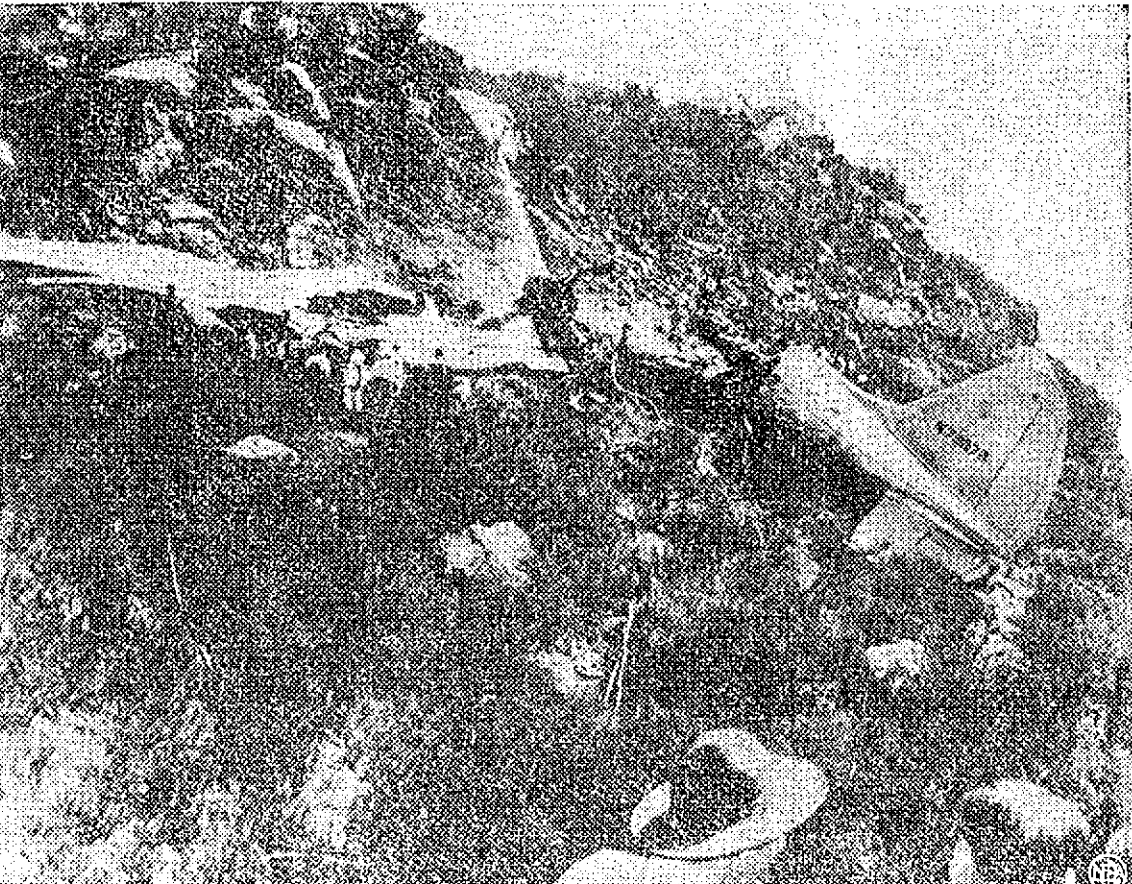

Altshuler came to public attention because of the successful treatment of two patients at Wayne county general hospital, one of whom recovered his sanity to compose a symphony played by the Detroit symphony orchestra.

The other gave a public piano recital which received critical acclaim.

Mistake to Grant Union Demand - Ford

New York, July 13 (AP) Henry Ford 2nd said today on arriving from Europe it would be "a great mistake" to grant at this time demands of the CIO United Automobile Workers for a fourth-round wage boost.

"We're going to be in a buyers' market this fall and we can't keep prices down it wages go up," said the youthful president of the Ford Motor Co.

A fellow passenger on the liner Queen Elizabeth, James J. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, disputed Ford's argument.

"The only way to bring about a buyers' market is to assure adequate purchasing power to the public," Carey said.

"This does not apply now because of high prices. It is possible as the whole history of Ford indicates, to provide increasing standards of wages, lower prices to the consumer and at the same time to give a better product to the market."

Carey declared "substantial wage increases can be given now by American industry and at the same time consumer prices can be reduced."

Rules Morley Can't Change Liquor Prices

Little Rock, July 13 (AP) — The 1949 "fair trade practices" act for liquor dealers does not give license Commissioner Dean R. Morley authority to reduce the price of whiskey arbitrarily. Attorney General El Murray has ruled.

Passage of the act was followed by a general upping of prices, a result sponsors said they had not anticipated.

Morley asked if he had authority to order reductions.

Peck Youth Reported Much Improved

The condition of young George Peck, Jr., 11, who was thrown to the pavement about noon yesterday when his motor scooter collided with a large truck at Third and Hurvey Streets, was considered much better today.

Branch Hospital attendants said he regained consciousness during the night, that he was much improved but is still in a very serious condition.

He suffered multiple contusions, lacerations, and a concussion which is feared may have resulted in a brain injury.

Driver of the Four-States Grocery truck, Elbert Watson of Texarkana, was released on bond yesterday. He was held on open charge pending further developments, local police said.

Two Hope Men Injured In Minor Accidents

Ross Wright, Hope, R. 2 mail carrier, was hurt early this morning when he fell from a platform in back of the post office and landed on his head. He was not believed too seriously hurt but was unable to make his run this morning.

Yesterday Ben D. Edwards was knocked unconscious for a short time when a wire cable broke and hit a board which struck him on the head.

He was working on some new buildings being erected at Second and Hazel Streets. His condition is not considered serious.

Singing Sunday

The regular monthly Community singing will be held Sunday July 17, at 2 p.m. at Garrett Memorial Baptist church. All singers and listeners are invited to attend.

Probers Would Call Up Negro Paul Robeson

Washington, July 13 (UP) — Rep. Francis E. Walter, (D-Pa.) proposed today that Paul Robeson, Negro baritone, be hauled before the house un-American activities committee to explain his affection for the Soviet Union.

Walter, a committee member, made the proposal during a hearing designed to "drive the lie" to Robeson's statement that American Negroes never will fight against Russia.

Alvin W. Stokes, Negro investigator for the committee, testified that fewer than 1,400 Negroes are members of the American Communist party. He said this is "despite the fact that they are the targets of constant and relentless Communist propaganda."

Stokes described a recent meeting to "welcome" Robeson home after a tour of Europe. Less than 25 per cent of the 5,000 spectators at this meeting, he said, Robeson said it is "unthinkable" that American Negroes will fight for the United States. But at the same time, Stokes said, he "deplored" the lack of a "rebellious" spirit among American Negroes.

Rep. Francis Cass, (R-SD), asked Stokes whether he "knew" that Robeson is a Communist party member.

"I do not," Stokes replied. "I do know of his open loyalty to the Communist movement."

"He (Robeson) should be subpoenaed to appear before this committee and give the basis for his statements he has made."

Committee Chairman John S. Wood, (D-Gov.) said the proposal would be considered later.

First President of Eire Dies at Age of 88

Dublin, Ireland, July 13 (AP) — Dr. Douglas Hyde, 88, first president of Eire, died last night.

A scholar and poet, Hyde was chosen president by acclamation and took the oath of office June 25, 1938. A Protestant, he headed a predominantly Catholic nation for a seven-year term.

Acheson Against Cut in Aid to Arm Europe

Washington, July 13 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson today flatly opposed any cut in the administration's projected $1,450,000,000 foreign arms aid program.

He said this figure represents the absolute minimum needed for western Europe and other areas.

The secretary stated his position at a news conference while opposition led by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) was wiping out prospects for a quick senate vote on the North Atlantic treaty.

The small group opposing the defense agreement centered their fire on the military aid program and the commitments carried in the pact.

Acheson also commented on another issue which has arisen on Capitol Hill. He agreed with Senator Dulles (R-NY) that the United States delegation at the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting in Paris had considered whether the American people should be kept "artificially alarmed" and had rejected the idea completely.

The matter came up Acheson said, in discussion of whether the Russians might try to create a false sense of peace and security by making a show of cooperation.

The U. S. delegation, he added, decided that it should not reject any possible avenue of cooperation with the Soviet union merely because acceptance of the avenue might relax tension in the world.

Majority Leader Lucas (D-Ill.) said he may keep the senate in session Saturday to reach a vote on the 12-nation alliance designed to strengthen the defense of the West against attack.

Romeo's Story Not Pretty to Read

New York, July 13 (UP) — A mail-order romeo's story of how he downed a bottle of whiskey and then helped his fat mistress slay a love-lorn widow whose whispering had disturbed his sleep was read in Bronx Supreme court today.

Raymond Fernandez, 34, whose shady dealings with women's hearts extended to two continents, denied at his "lonely hearts" murder trial yesterday that he had killed Mrs. Janet Fay, 66, of Albany, N. Y., last Jan. 4. His mistress eliminated her rival for his affections, he said.

Assistant District Attorney Edward Robinson, Jr., proposed to contradict that testimony by reading his earlier confession in which he told of helping his paramour bludgeon and strangle Mrs. Fay, whose ambition was to win him as a husband.

Fernandez' denial was contradicted by the confession of his 200-pound mistress, Mrs. Martha Beck, 29, which was read in court. Mrs. Beck said Fernandez strangled Mrs. Fay until her false teeth fell out after she battered the widow's head with a ball-peen hammer.

The defense counsel lost a seven-day battle but the confessions of his earlier confession in which he told of helping his paramour bludgeon and strangle Mrs. Fay, whose ambition was to win him as a husband.

Weather Caused a Death Indirectly

The weather indirectly caused a death in Arkansas Tuesday night and increased to nine the number of violent fatalities in the state since Sunday.

Charles Henry Compton, 24-year-old Arkansas Power and Light company lineman was injured fatally at Magnolia when he touched a high voltage wire while repairing power lines damaged in an electrical storm.

Magnolia was one of several places in Arkansas where rain, wind and lightning struck Tuesday. Damage, while widespread, was minor.

Six persons have died this week as a result of traffic accidents. There were one drowning and one suicide.

Rainfall Is General Over Many States

By The Associated Press
More welcome rain fell in parts of the dry stricken areas of the northeastern states today.

The falls over the drought belt of southern New England, New York and New Jersey were not heavy, the U. S. weather bureau said. But they followed Sunday's rain and helped to some extent the parched farm crops. The long dry spell has caused millions of dollars damage to crops throughout the area. Farm owners said heavy rains are needed to revive the withering crops and dry pasture lands.

The wet belt covered parts of Connecticut, Massachusetts, southern Vermont, New Jersey and from New York City to near Albany. Rain also fell in eastern Pennsylvania.

Other rainy areas included the lower Ohio Valley and in the northern plains. Elsewhere, skies generally were clear.

The Gulf states and parts of California and Arizona had the country's hottest weather. Temperatures again climbed above 100 yesterday in Texas, including 105 at El Paso, 104 at Fort Worth, 102 at Abilene and 101 at Laredo.

The nation's top reading was 108 at Yuma, Ariz., four degrees above the maximum at Phoenix, and five degrees higher than the top at throughout much of the country. Fresno, Calif., temperatures throughout most of the country were around normal, with readings generally in the 80's.

Former Arkansas Road Director Succumbs

Little Rock, July 13 (AP) — James R. Rhyme, 68, former Arkansas highway director, died at his home here yesterday after an illness of several months.

He served in the administrations of former Gov. J. M. Futrell and the late Gov. Carl E. Bailey.

Survivors include his widow, a son, Dr. James F. Rhyme of Pine Bluff, a daughter, a brother and four sisters, including Mrs. A. D. Whitehead of Helena, Ark.

Salesman Rapist Forced From Woods By Snakebite

El Dorado, July 13 (AP) — A young magazine salesman has surrendered to face a charge of raping a 16-year-old Fordyce waitress.

Wanted to go to the state penitentiary, Ollie Ray Doshier said he had been hiding in the woods near Hermatage, Ark., since the alleged attack occurred at Fordyce last Thursday.

He had the knack of putting words together — the thing that snakes writing luminous and readable. And he could roll the copy out fast and clean.

And these are the hallmarks of ability in our clan.

Last year Jack left the New York Herald Tribune Washington bureau to join the staff of Time magazine here. For a time he missed the daily excitement of spot reporting. A few weeks ago we had lunch together.

"I'm going to Indonesia to get a firsthand look at what's going on there," he said. "Better come along."

I was tempted. I had been invited by Lynn Mahan, an old Missouri friend who acted as public relations man for the Dutch government on the tour, and who also was killed. But I already had another assignment — a trip to the European war zones.

That was the last time I saw Jack. He was happy as a cub reporter off on his first story.

Now he's dead — at 38, never having worn or become cynical. But he had helped in a memorable way to tell the tale of his time, and that's what he set out to do.

He was the symbol of a great type — the true reporter. And only death stopped his questioning.

Truman Will Tell How to Prevent a Depression

Washington, July 13 (AP) — President Truman is going to sit down tonight and tell the American people about his prescription for heading off a depression.

He wants to get over to them his idea that there is nothing to be scared about in the moderate economic decline unless folks get panicky.

And he wants to defend the fiscal policy of his administration against criticism by some members of congress.

The President will talk to the nation over four major radio networks and via television from a desk in the movie projection room at the White House.

This first major so-called "fireside chat" by Mr. Truman this year is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. (Central Standard Time).

The talk, White House aides said, will be an elaboration of his mid-year economic report to congress on Monday. In this he scrapped earlier demands for a $4,000,000 tax increase and proposed an 11-point program to expand production, employment and purchasing power.

The theme of that message was that the country cannot have prosperity "by getting adjusted to the idea of a depression — by cutting investment or employment or wages or essential government programs."

Mr. Truman took the stand that to cut what he called essential programs, in an effort to avoid in-the-future financing, would lower national output, and employment as well. He said such cutting could "wreck the government more in the long run than they would save now."

He has pledged the administration to seek "a national output well above 300 billion dollars" through "constantly growing employment and purchasing power."

Bankrobber Talks With Ex-Mistress

Memphis, Tenn., July 13 (AP) — Clyde Milton Johnson, convicted with his plump, tattooed former mistress today before the defense took the floor in his federal trial on charges of bank robbery.

The slender, dapper gunman and his lawyer talked with Judge Francis Glaze Hayes in Shelby county jail. Attorney Don G. Owens said the meeting was to set up Johnson's defense.

Johnson, 30, is accused of robbing a Memphis bank of some $40,000 last Feb. 7. He also is charged with charges of transporting stolen money across state lines.

Yesterday, two FBI agents testified for the prosecution. They said Johnson gave them complete details of the holdup after he was seriously wounded in a running gun battle across monument circle in crowded downtown Indianapolis.

Earlier, Johnson listened to bored attention as former sweetheart, Mrs. Mahal Scroggins of Memphis, testified for the prosecution.

Johnson was arrested — along with Mrs. Scroggins and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Anderson of St. Louis in Miami bar about a month after the Memphis robbery.

A few days later, the balding ex-convict "walked out" of Miami's "escape proof" sky-scraping jail and let the FBI on a nationwide manhunt until he was shot down in Indiana. "Butcher-knife Billie" was arrested at the same time.

In Miami last Friday, Billie pleaded guilty to holding Johnson escape and was sentenced to two years, nine months in prison and fined $1,000.

In yesterday's session, both Mrs. Scroggins and Mrs. Anderson testified that Johnson tried to prove his contention that Johnson transported stolen money across state lines.

Anderson pleaded guilty to the robbery after he and Johnson were picked up on the highway. He was sentenced to state and federal prison terms totaling 40 years.

Farther back, another door opened into storage space and a lavatory. Everything was brand new, shining of the finest quality, convenient, workable. The kitchen itself made Mrs. Malone's mouth water. She thought a chef from a swank hotel would enjoy cooking over such a stove, using such utensils within arm's reach of such a variety of spices, flavorings, condiments, and essentials. The window curtained daintily, now framed the familiar desert, the dark clumps of mesquite, the distant blue of hills.

"As you see," Mrs. Everson said, using the phrase again and with her own particular emphasis, "the room you would occupy has its own radio, a place for your clothes, a reading light." She turned and looked directly at Mrs. Malone, as if searching for some clue to her personality. You seem to be a sensible woman," she said. "Not like that fool who just left. I warn you there won't be any amusements where I'm going. But I'll pay you well. Three hundred dollars a month. How about it?"

Mrs. Malone realized that she had tried to encompass all must make her decision quickly, the evidence at once but there wasn't much to go by... only these obvious facts: here manifest, were wealth and power. Here was luxury. The expensive freedom available only to the privileged. Adventure, perhaps. Not Joe's kind, not the humane, exploration, the search for truth.

This had something uneasy about it, even a little sinister, but also exciting. Mrs. Malone's senses tickled with apprehension and with desire.

"I wonder," she said, "if you would mind my asking a question? Is this a scientific expedition?"

Mrs. Everson smiled. Her long fingers crossed her thighs and she shook her head so that the heavy weight of hair swung from side to side.

"Not exactly," she said. "I'm going hunting. For peace and security. Does that answer your question?"

"Yes," Mrs. Malone said. Suddenly, she decided. "I'll take the job."

"Very well. And please call me Madam. All of my servants do."

A sensation of sharp anger rose in Mrs. Malone like a snake coiling to strike. She was normally, an even-tempered woman, not given to resentment, but she despised arrogance. She controlled herself, now with an effort.

"Very good, Madam," she heard herself say.

She sounded so exactly like a professional domestic that she laughed inwardly. All at one she began to enjoy herself.

The trailer swayed slightly when in motion, and there was a faint, faraway, sound of deep treaded tires. The outside world seemed nonexistent; it appeared in flowing variations across the windows, but had no more reality than a series of pictures.

The interior itself was aircooled. Mrs. Malone noticed the blurred whirring of small fans set in ventilators, and she felt moved about the kitchen she felt moved about that stirred her hair and touched her cheeks.

She was not expected to prepare lunch. An order scribbled on a piece of blue paper crested in gold called for dinner promptly at six, to be served in the "main salon." Chops, peas, potatoes au gratin, pears, cake, small coffee, mints.

And, as an apparent afterthought, the undercooks: "For two. Myself, and my house guest, Marchese Dellacasa. Victor will set the table and serve."

Who Victor might be, Mrs. Malone had no idea until, toward sunset when the curvilinear humphied cautiously off the road and halted. Mrs. Malone saw the driver, quick catlike, walking back toward the second trailer.

A few moments later her kitchen door opened and Victor entered her life. He was a Filipino, of medium height, young, with an immaculate skin and very black eyes and hair.

He seemed nervous, apologetic. "Are you the cook? I am Victor. I am pleased to meet you."

His English was impeccable, with a fresh, childlike enunciation. "Hello, Victor. My name's Malone."

His cheerfulness pleased him visibly. He gave her a shy quick smile.

"I'm glad the other one went away," he said. "Already she was scared and unhappy. But you are brave."

"Not brave. Just reckless," Mrs. Malone said. "You see, Victor, I'm not one to care much what happens to me. Now show me about the table. I'll help."

"Thank you," Victor said. (To Be Continued)

Steel Walkout Most Serious to the Nation

Pittsburgh, July 13 (AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers executive board today accepted a presidential plan for a 60-day steel strike delay—but failed to mention whether steel concerns rejecting the plan would be included in the strike.

Only one steelmaker—Jones & Laughlin—has accepted President Truman's proposal. The giant U. S. Steel corp., the nation's top producer, Bethlehem and Republic all have rejected the White House proposal.

A strike embracing 500,000 union workers was threatened for this weekend, at Friday and Saturday night. President Truman had proposed a 60-day contract extension while an unofficial fact-finding board investigated the issues.

A highly placed unionist said after the executive board's action that:

"The picture now looks as if out there will be effective only with the President. The picture may change but that's the way it looks now."

The union's 170-man wage and policy committee must ratify the executive board's action. This ratification was expected at a meeting this afternoon.

CIO President Philip Murray announced the executive board's decision. Murray told a news conference after the executive board meeting "when the wage policy committee acts today we will officially notify the President of our decision."

Murray said he had no comment on U. S. Steel's refusal to go along with the President's plan.

Washington, July 13 (AP)—Once more in a deeply serious moment of its history the nation holds its breath as two giants, the steelworkers and the steel industry, get braced for struggle.

Turn back the pages of the history book a moment.

It was a cold, gray, snowy day, the striking steelworkers set up their picket lines and began their endless, slow, shuffling, circling around.

The day was Jan. 21, 1946. It was the first day, the start, of the big postwar steel strike. I was there and saw it begin. The whole nation was watching.

At the time, I wrote that this might be the start of a tragic chapter in American history, for America at that moment was trying to reconquer to peace.

Steel was then and is now, the heart and backbone of the American economy. Steel was basic, it was needed everywhere to get the country going on the high road to great peacetime prosperity.

But a steel strike, if it lasted long, could push the whole economy into a stupor, a staggering demoralized halt and for a very simple reason: that anyone could understand.

Since steel was basic in all kinds of industries—building, autos, washing machines, any number of industries they'd have to shut down for lack of steel if the strike was long.

And that would have meant spreading unemployment at a time when it was vital for the country to get people into jobs, to swing over smoothly from war to peace.

In short, a long steel strike would have crushed recovery in a thousand ways.

The strike lasted a month, not long enough to throw the whole country out of whack. The men went back into the mills and American prosperity began its climb to the highest peak in history.

Now, once more, the nation is faced with a giant steel strike and once more the danger comes at a moment which might be critical, for now the American economy has begun to slide down hill.

Only two days ago President Truman and his council of economic advisers reported that the economy is slipping, that unemployment has increased to around 4,000,000, or double what it was a year ago.

Training Is Open to All Veterans

The Veterans Training Program at Hope High school is being expanded in the near future to include many courses of training not previously offered. It will be possible to offer training to many veterans who have not previously enrolled. In order to help us develop the program along the needs of the local veterans you are asked to complete the following form and return it to John W. Martin, Veterans Training Office, Court House, Hope, Arkansas.

As our present program is organized there are four types of training offered, each of which is to be expanded to the needs of local veterans. The four types are as follows:

1. Building Trades is a full-time training course in which the veteran is in training six hours a day including practical work in building and classroom work. This program now includes carpentry, masonry (brick), cabinet making and cement finishing but will be expanded to include plumbers, painters and others as the demand warrants. For qualified veterans on this program, the Veterans Administration pays subsistence as on any other full-time program.

2. Adult Education is the part-time program for the trainee who wishes to spend about six hours a week in training. It now includes carpentry, radio, electricity, business administration and auto mechanics. This program is to be expanded along the lines desired by local veterans. Subsidence is paid depending on the hours per week attendance in training.

3. Trades and Business or On-the-Job Training is offered for veterans who have full time jobs in this area and who desire more instruction along with that received whole at their jobs. This group now includes mechanics, sales persons, and others and is to be expanded as others desire training of this type. While on this program, the Veterans Administration helps maintain a minimum income.

4. The Farm Training Program offers training to veterans who own or rent farms in this area. These trainees receive instruction by periodic attendance at the High school and by visits from the instructors. The veterans are paid by the Veterans Administration a subsistence allowance while in training.

All veterans who are not now enrolled in any of these programs in any school and who would desire such training are asked to complete the form below, detach from this paper, and mail to John W. Martin, Veterans Training program, Court House, Hope, Arkansas.

Jennifer Jones Weds Her Producer - Boss

Portofino, Italy, July 13 (AP)—Hollywood's Cinderella star, Jennifer Jones, married her producer-boss, David Selznick, today on a yacht off the Italian Riviera.

The mayor of Portofino announced the marriage of the 30-year-old actress and the 47-year-old executive was performed by Ernest J. Stroud, British captain of the yacht, Manana.

Jennifer, an unknown in Hollywood until Selznick discovered her, was the first to leave the Manana. She was greeted by the mayor of Portofino. She was followed by Selznick and both avoided newsmen.

Jennifer—born Phyllis Isley—was just an unknown from Tulsa, Okla., broke but ambitious, when she heard Selznick was looking for a girl to play in "Claudia." Later, her star role in "The Song of Bernadette" won her the academy award and world fame.

Selznick is the president of Selznick International Pictures, Inc., and producer of the academy award winning pictures "Gone With the Wind" and "Rebecca," among others. He is a founder of Vanguard Films, Inc.

The ceremony took place at 8:30 a. m. (1:30 a. m. CST) while the motor yacht lay at anchor a few miles off this picturesque resort on the Italian Riviera.

Miss Jones, in sun glasses and a white, flower-pattern handkerchief on her head, wore a white summer frock for the ceremony.

Hollywood film land observers have long linked romantically the names of the producer and his top-ranking star. Then, in March, Selznick announced the marriage would come before then end of the summer "when we get a breather from our work."

U.S. Economy Doing a Bit Better

By SAM DAWSON
New York, July 13 (AP)—There's still a lot of bounce in our economy. Today's news shows a number of things that have dropped, in price and output, and are now on the rebound.

It's only a little bounced back so far, but it's pleasant. Demand has picked up for copper and lead, two items that dropped fast and far since March. And prices are firming on the two important metals.

Wheat prices are firmer—pleasant news for farmers, unless they happen to be the ones whose crops were injured by disease and bad weather in June. It was this cut in the expected supply that strengthened prices.

GALL BLADDER

SUFFERERS FIND CURE FOR MISERY DUE TO LACK OF HEALTHY BILE
Supply Rushed Here—Sufferers Relieve New relief for gallbladder sufferers lacking healthy bile is seen today in announcement of a wonderful preparation which acts with remarkable effect. Sufferers with agonizing colic, stomach and gallbladder misery due to lack of healthy bile now tell of remarkable results after using this medicine which has amazed power to stimulate flow of healthy bile. GALLUSIN is a very expensive medicine, but considering results, the $3.00 cost is only pennies per dose. GALLUSIN (caution, use only as directed) is sold with full money back guarantee by John P. Cox Drug Store. Mail Orders Filled.

Miss Virginia Spragins Weds in California
In one of the most beautiful weddings of the season, Virginia Spragins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Spragins, recited her marriage vows with Robert Jackson Gaudin, son of Mr. Robert Duncan of Whittier, Cal. on June 23 in a candlelight ceremony in the Presbyterian church.

The Rev. Dr. J. Davis Barnard performed the double ring rites before an altar banked with lilies and baskets of tall white and pink gladioli. Included in the incidental organ music played by E. L. Reuter was Clair de Lune by Debussy, Chester Finch, soloist, sang "I Love Thee, by Craig, an "Still as the Night" by Bohm, with violin obligato by Francis J. Boyer. "A Wedding Benediction" by Lovelace was sung at the conclusion of the service. Lighting the candles were George Spragins, Jr., brother of the bride, and Robert Garrett.

The lovely bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a bluish pink satin gown with a full skirt and train. The bodice was fashioned princess style with long sleeves and pearl and crystal trim. She wore a long veil of imported lace with a coronet of Italian rose-point lace that had been worn by her mother at her wedding. The bride's shoes were of satin to match her gown and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, pink gladioli and white orchids.

The bride's attendants were gowned alike in pink organza dresses styled with full skirts and wide tulle sashes. They carried bouquets of deep pink and fuchsia gladioli. Miss Mary Lou Kern of Whittier was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Pat Lyons of Seattle, Carol Way of Monrovia and Majora Gaudin of Whittier, sister of the groom.

Robert Elkins of Whittier served as best man and ushers were Marvin Agee, Richard Hogsett and Glenn Day, all of Whittier, and John Dablow of Mahanomen, Minn. The bride's mother wore an aqua crepe gown with pink gloves

MOST BEAUTIFUL BLONDE—Ruth Thomas, 22, of New York City, is the winner of a movie company's "Most Beautiful Blonde" contest over 4000 entrants from New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. Her prizes include an air trip to Havana and a complete wardrobe. She is now appearing in a Broadway musical.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: I will be 26 this year. I am engaged to the most wonderful man in the world. He has quite a bit of money saved, enough to buy all of our furniture and still have a nice little nest egg and is making what is a good salary for these times. I also have a good job and he does not object to my keeping it, but my mother does. Don't you think I am old enough to judge what is the best to do for myself? Mother, always wanted me to marry and kept nagging me about it and now that I really want to marry she is standing in my way. What shall I do?

Answer: If you haven't enough intelligence at 26 to know your own problems, you never will have, so now is the time for you to make a strike for freedom and cut your mother's apron string.

Of course, as long as you live you will want to listen respectfully to your mother's opinion's and avoid needlessly hurting her by refusing to take her advice. But when you are a woman-grown you have to stand on your own feet and settle your own affairs. Your mother can do what for you. She can't live you life for you, or really know what is best for you, no matter how much she thinks she does.

In this case she is altogether wrong, and she is interfering in something that is not her business. The question is absolutely between you and the young man, and if you want to continue on with your job and he does not object, your mother has no say-so in the matter.

You would certainly be very foolish not to go on and do the and aqua hat trimmed with pink roses. Her corsage was of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a brown ballet-length gown with matching hat and a corsage of baby orchids.

Following the ceremony there was a reception for 200 guests at the home and garden of the bride's parents. The home was attractively decorated for the occasion and the bride's table was covered with a handmade cloth that had been used at the wedding reception of the bride's parents. Highlighted with the wedding cake topped with a tiny bride and groom, the table held a silver candelabra with white tapers and a cut glass punch bowl. Punch and cake were also served in the garden at a well-appointed table. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Otto Siedschlag, Mrs. Weymeth Garrett, Mrs. Mae Warner, and Miss Gladys Arbuthnot.

The newly weds are honeymooning in Northern Cal. following which they will reside in Whittier. The bride was graduated from Arcadia schools and will be a senior at Whittier College next fall. The bridegroom graduated from the University of Minnesota and Whittier College and will be a senior next fall at USC law school.

The Spragins formerly lived in Hope and Mrs. Gaudin visited with her parents two years ago. (from Arcadia, Cal. paper) thing that your judgment indicates to you is the wisest thing to do. You mother's objections is based upon nothing better than some outmoded theory that there was some discredit somehow in a girl working after marriage. Nobody is bound by that ancient tradition nowadays when everybody recognizes a woman's right to help herself and her husband in any way she can, and if she can do it better by working in an office instead of a kitchen, why it is just up to her.

Of course, mothers always think they know best. Probably they never did. Certainly they don't know now when all the conditions of life have changed since their youth.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl 21 years old. My mother is dead and my father married again. I have always been petted and spoiled and done just as I please so I can't get along with my stepmother, although she would be good to me if I would let her. She is as good to my father as she can be. I left home and I don't want to go back and I don't want to work and I want my father to provide for me with plenty of money. What must I do?

Answer: I should think you are in trouble, terrible trouble, and you will always be in trouble as long as you live, as long as you act like a silly, spoiled baby instead of a sensible young woman.

You see, you are being perfectly selfish, considering no one but yourself, and no self-centered selfish person can possibly be happy. Because they never can get all they want. They never can always have the center of the stage and they never can make everybody kowtow to them. According to your own story you have left home without reason. Your stepmother is good and kind to you and would be a real mother to you if you would permit it, and I think your father has done exactly right and is doing the thing that will bring you to your senses by refusing to support you while you nurse your grudge against him for marrying again.

The thing for you to do is either to go back home and apologize to your father and your stepmother and make yourself pleasant and agreeable to live with or else get a job. Of the two courses that would be the better one because it would give you something to think about besides yourself and make you of some use to the world. A healthy, intelligent girl of 21 should be ashamed to be a parasite and expect somebody else to provide for her. There is no more reason for her being a loafer than there is for a man of the same age.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix: A friend of mine is going away to spend a week-end with a man who is in love with her. She claims that everything will be quite proper and tells me that I am prissy and old-fashioned to object to it and that every one is doing it. What do you think?

Answer: Undoubtedly, many young women do go away with men for week-ends, but when they do they leave their reputations behind them. Possibly their conduct is proper and platonic, but a hard-boiled world looks on it with a cynical eye and believes the worst.

Week-ending with men friends is one of the things that simply is not done by young women who have any regard for their good names.

No Politics in Liquor Setup Says Morley

Little Rock, July 13 (AP) — There's no politics in issuance of liquor sale permits, says State Revenue Commissioner Dean R. Morley.

Morley told the Arkansas Package Stores association, the organization of retail liquor dealers, last night.

"If politics was a factor, most of you would be out of business, for about 75 per cent of you supported the losing candidate for governor," Morley said.

Permits are issued on the basis of reasonable financial responsibility, good moral character and objectionable location and that's all anybody needs to get a permit," he declared.

Growers Could Use a Little Cotton Weather

Little Rock, July 13 (AP) — Arkansas cotton growers could use some "cotton weather" to advance, says the state's weekly crop and weather bulletin.

The report covered the week ending yesterday.

The report added: However, the cotton crop was reported in fair to good condition in most areas. Boll weevils continue to be a threat in some sections.

What's needed, the report said, is dry, sunny weather instead of the rain cotton-growing sections have been getting.

"Rice is doing well although some fields are badly infested with weeds and grass. Frequent rains have hampered the control of rice water weevil, x x x Application of fertilizer by plane continued during the week."

The violet is Illinois' state flower.

Revelation

A youngster attending church for the first time was surprised when the people around her kneeled devoutly, and asked her "What's the reason?"

"Hush!" her mother whispered. "They're saying their prayers."

"What?" exclaimed the youngster. "With all their clothes on?"

The Tourist Courtesy and Information Course which was sponsored by the Prescott Chamber of Commerce with the cooperation of the Prescott School system and the State Department of Education, Distributive Division, was completed on Thursday, July 7. Milburn Adams, and Rose M. Clark representing the State Department of Education, supervised the instruction of this course.
The course featured two films, both famous in the State of Arkansas and one which has received world wide recognition. Mr. Adams and Miss Clark presented on Tuesday, July 5, Tom Mull of the Arkansas Game and Fish commission, at the afternoon class session. Mr. Mull brought with him the new film on the fish and game of this state and it was thoroughly enjoyed by those who attended the showing of this film. On Thursday, the course featured the world famous technicolor film, "All Around Arkansas" which was published by the Standard Oil Company and covers vividly the beautiful resorts and scenic routes in this state as well as graphically illustrating the industrial resources which are bringing income and fame to Arkansas. The films were shown at the Com Theatre through the courtesy of O. R. Peachey. Sid Davis, a recent honor graduate of the Prescott high school also assisted in the showing of the film, "All Around Arkansas."

NEEDLE IN HIS HEART—Five-month-old Dickie Morse had been breathing too heavily for either his or his parents' comfort. They brought him to a Los Angeles hospital for a check-up. An X-ray, right, showed Dickie had a half-inch sliver of needle in his heart. A surgeon at the hospital performed the delicate operation, removing the piece of steel from the baby's heart muscle. Doctors say Dickie probably rolled over on a needle carelessly left in his crib. A piece stuck in him and in a few days worked itself to his heart. He's okay now, and all set to go home to San Diego.

SLUNG LOW, SWEET CHARIOT—Marceline Matlock isn't as tall as she looks. She's inspecting the ultra-streamlined Tornado Special straightaway racer that's only 41 inches high. Powered by an engine in the rear, the 18-foot-long racer is on display at the Oakland, Calif., International Auto Show. Owner-designer Lee Chapel hopes to hit the 200-mph mark when he races it for the first time on the Mohave Desert July 17.

tem so far. The state considered leasing state-owned airfields for storage but it hasn't been necessary.

Around Enid, Okla., an important grain center, lots of grain has been piled in barn driveways, in garages and other farm buildings but most of it is under cover and well protected.

G. E. Blewett of Fort Worth, secretary of the Texas Grain and Feed Dealers' association, says there is less wheat stored on the ground in that state than in 10 years. Many Texas farmers' bins, he says, are not full.

All the winter wheat belt was hit hard by the rapid deterioration of the crop. The winter wheat yield now looks to the agriculture department like 932,095,000 bushels. That's about 105,000,000 short of its June forecast. Last year's bumper crop was 990,095,000 bushels.

But by the 10-year average of 726,553,000 bushels it still isn't a big crop. It's just the difference between a squeeze on storage space.

Fail to Learn Identity of Young Girl

(UP)—A psychiatrist, examining a pretty young amnesia victim under hypnosis today added more fragments to his store of information about her but failed to learn her identity.

But the doctor, who asked that he not be identified, predicted that it will be "only a matter of time" before he learns who the girl is. He believes she came from Columbus, O.

The brown-haired, blue-eyed girl, who is about 17, was found wandering along a highway outside Chattanooga on the night of June 22. A physician who examined her then said she had been raped.

The psychiatrist said that while talking with the girl after he has hypnotized her he has learned that she probably once lived in New York and Chicago and may have visited in Dearborn, Mich. or St. Louis.

The talks have also indicated, he said, that she is "convent educated with an Irish-Catholic background."

The girl, on entering the hospital, first gave her name as Shirley Kelly, 17, of 610 N. Wabash St. Chicago. That address turned out to be a hotel, and the trail faded away.

The doctor here said the girl's amnesia apparently was caused by the combination of her father's death and her mother's remarriage.

She seems to have a "good education," he said, with a knowledge of both classical and popular music, literature and a working familiarity with anatomy and medical terms.

break of war between the United States and Russia," says the dispatch. "Since this appears unlikely, the next best thing would be some sort of common anti-Communist front among Asiatic nations which would be a big moral if not a substantial boost to the Kuomintang position."

The Hongkong report says the Chiang-Quirino agreement has the effect of "consolidating wavering Kuomintang elements in Canton behind the party. They still are getting on American atom bombs to win a war with Russia if they can just stall off the Reds long enough for the war to take place," the report concludes.

Quirino is in no better position than he was in the election next fall, he faces strong opposition. His Liberal party has nominated him to run for a second term, but strangely could not agree on a vice presidential candidate and left Quirino to pick his own. The internal split this reflects among the Liberals is in contrast with the growing strength of the Nationalists under Jose Laurel, once puppet president under the Japanese.

The Nationalists promptly and strongly criticized Quirino's deal with Chiang and criticism seems likely to spread among Filipinos who resent inroads made by Chinese businessmen in their country.

Only three possible leaders for any pan-Asiatic non-Communist movement have been mentioned—India's Prime Minister Nehru, Chiang, and Quirino.

If Chiang and Quirino have teamed up to lead the field, one reason is that Chiang sees the Pacific union as a chance to keep his regime in Canton going.

The initiative Quirino has taken as an Asiatic leader may help his position in a tight domestic political situation.

San Angelo Had No Polio Warning

San Angelo, Tex., July 13 (UP)—Polio struck this town in the heart of the great plains of Texas almost without warning.

True, the community had had isolated cases of the disease for some months, but the number was insignificant.

But early in May the encephalitis began to worry health officials. Civic leaders, physicians and representatives of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis met. They frankly discussed the possibility that the epidemic state—20 cases per 100,000 population.

Meanwhile more and more cases were being reported. Doctors were treating numerous suspicious cases in homes.

On May 27 there were 26 cases of polio. Some were being brought from far outside of Tom Green county because hospital facilities here are excellent.

Local authorities asked the national foundation for help. Funds contributed in the local March of Dimes drive last January were quickly expended. Beds, nurses, material for hot packs and iron lung respirators were needed quickly.

The foundation found the beds and lungs. They asked the Red Cross for nurses for temporary duty in San Angelo. Air force flyers from Goodfellow field raced to various sections of the country to beds and other equipment. Nurses and physical therapists were flown to various parts of the country to bring back the lungs, hospital beds and other equipment. Nurses and physical therapists were flown in.
